Class News

- This week in ELA, will be starting our new theme- "Changes Over Time". We will be reading and writing about how we measure time. We are also continuing to read and write words with the glued sounds "ang" as in fang, "ing" as in ring, "ong" as in song, and "ung" as in lung. We will also learn four more glued sounds: "ank" as in bank, "ink" as in pink, "onk" as in honk, and "unk" as in junk. I will also introduce reading words with Long A spelled a consonant e, or a_e, as in the words late shake. To help the children remember the long vowel spellings of vowel consonant e and the sounds they make, I have made up little stories for each one. Each week when one is introduced, I will share the story with you on the reverse side of this paper with the words to practice reading and spelling.
- In math, we will be measuring, comparing, and subtracting with penguins while we are on a pretend trip to Antarctica!

Sounds of the Week

Phonics Word List

bank pink honk sunk

yank rink bonk dunk

thank think wink chunk

Did you know that there are helper letters in the alphabet? One of those letter is "e" "E" can help vowels say their name. For example, when it's a__e, "e" reaches over the consonant and bonks "a" on the head. "A" says, "A! What did you do that for?"

ate lake shade rake

Sentences

Remember to try to read the sentences below "like you are talking, with feeling, and no pausing".

Where did you put my two pink rings?

Nate, did you pick up all of your junk?

I think that is a snake!
